Norco College - The First 25 Years

“March Madness”

Norco IMC invites you to take a look back to March 1993 at Norco College Theater’s production of “March Madness.”

“March Madness” was a variety show that featured the talented students from Norco College’s theater, dance, and music classes as well as students who had the ability, talent, and drive to perform.

The showcase gave the students an opportunity to perform before a live audience which included teachers, peers, friends, and families. Several students performed songs as soloists and others in trios and groups. Dance acts, musicians, and comedians rounded up the show along with a student emcee doing his best to entertain the crowd between acts.

The event was deemed a success and hilarious! Not to mention just plain fun! The theater came alive for “March Madness” and it was the first of many such shows.
