Session Descriptions

Becoming an Equity-Minded Practitioner: With over 16 years of experience within the California Community Colleges in various faculty roles, and currently as Dean of Student Success and Equity at Cuyamaca College, Dr. Jesús Miranda will share highlights of his most recent research and practice within the equity-minded space. His Keynote discussion will focus on the central topics to becoming an equity-minded practitioner and institution within the California Community College. Topics will include perspectives and approaches with racial inequities in student outcomes, identifying the systemic challenges to our equity efforts within the CCC environment, practitioner commitment to effectively address racial inequities (beyond good intentions), and the work within the equity-minded space moving forward in our unique environments.

What's New in the World of NC Assessment?: An update on the new assessment cycle including: cycle overview, Nuventive update, next steps and assessment projects (LFM Team, and NAC Sub-group).

"The homeless crisis in Los Angeles, how can we effect change as educators?": Each night 100s of community college students sleep on the street. How can educators help to mitigate this challenge? Come and let's brainstorm.

Distance Education - Using DesignPLUS in Canvas (Beginner to Intermediate Level): Using Design Tools, you can easily customize the look of pages, announcements, assignments, the course syllabus, discussion descriptions, and quiz descriptions. Come learn how to use DesignPLUS in your Spring classes to help you create and style course content.

Tuition-Free College: Planning for Noncredit in RCCD: Noncredit offers students the opportunity to complete tuition-free courses and certificates, providing pathways to college credit programs and the attainment of meaningful wage work.

This session provides a review of the basics of adult education and noncredit, provides data on potential student populations, summarizes noncredit status in RCCD, and highlights noncredit planning efforts.

Mosaic Series RJTF Sawubona: Our Black and African American Students: The Zulu tribe greeting, Sawubona means "I see you". In Fall 21, the Racial Justice Taskforce (RJTF) initiated the Sawubona Mosaic Series with the purpose of introducing Black and African American students and college employees to the Norco College community. In this first event, we will view nine student-created videos, a gift to us, and appreciate the variety of experience, identity and wealth each student brings to Norco College. As we see them in their uniqueness, we will be more equipped and committed to making they experience with us nurturing and supportive.

Grant Concept Development Best Practices: Discuss need for the grant, funding resources available, investigators. Resources available and the process of submitting the grant idea to the president of the college.

"Hire Me! Part 2 (For Part-time Faculty applying to Full-time Positions); Planning and Preparing Strategies": A panel discussion about personal experiences in planning and preparing for full-time hiring.
