Debunking Stereotypes:

The affects, the impacts, and the need for them to be confronted

My talk will focus on debunking the stereotypes of Queer relationships, specifically age-gap relationships and polyamorous love. We'll discuss common misconceptions and how to look past our limiting beliefs regarding "non-traditional" relationships.

Bio: Eloy is a California native, a senior at CSUSB, and a Norco College alumnus. He is pursuing a BA in Organizational Communication, a minor in Gender and Sexuality Studies, and an additional minor in Native American Studies. He is passionate about supporting first-generation students, LGBTQ+ people, and black and brown communities achieving their goals through his podcast, LPDcast.

My talk will focus on the stereotype that the LGBTQ+ community is inclusive. The conversation will dive into how those that are not white, cisgender, male, and able-bodied are left out of important conversations. Bio: Formerly a Norco College alumni, Steven Avila is a Cal State San Bernardino graduate student working on his degree in School and Clinical Counseling. He serves as a Student Program Assistant at CSUSB's Queer and Transgender Resource Center and is also on the Board of the Counseling Graduate Student Association as the current Director of Programs.

More Information

This event will be split between two talks, one given by former alum from Norco College, Eloy Garcia, and the other talk given by former alum from Norco College, Steven Avila. Eloy's talk will be focused on debunking stereotypes of Queer relationships with a particular examination toward age-gap relationships and polyamorous love. Steven's talk will be focused on the stereotype of the LGBTQ+ community as inclusive with a particular examination of how those that are not white, cisgender, male, and able-bodied are left out of important conversations. There will be an opportunity at the end for a Q & A session.
