Ecuador is distributing coronavirus tests door-to-door in one of its hardest hit cities

Lessons from China: How global business has changed forever

- China has been living seven weeks in the future. The world's second largest economy was the first to be hit by the coronavirus outbreak, which forced it to halt travel, shutter stores and theme parks, mandate masks in public and encourage the public to embrace social distancing.

- As the country is gradually reopening, and as the rest of the world prepares to do the same, companies that were forced to first respond to the outbreak in China are using their early experiences to form a blueprint for other regions.
- Corporate responses in China have become a focal point for Wall Street analysts in recent months, as global brands such as Nike (NKE), Starbucks (SBUX) and Disney (DIS) share their experiences in the country on calls with investors and credit their teams there for guiding them through the crisis.

We're all glued to our screens right now. Here's how you can protect your eyes

- One new estimate suggested that adults are spending more than 13 hours a day using screens, a spike up from 10 hours a day a year ago.
- With children cut off from physically attending school, they are more reliant on laptops and tablets for online lessons and entertainment.

Drug dealers pose as food delivery drivers during coronavirus lockdown – Interpol

- Police in the UK, Ireland, Malaysia and Spain have reported instances of drug couriers posing as food delivery workers, while carrying illicit drugs such as cocaine, marijuana, ketamine and ecstasy, according to the international police organization.

Expert report predicts up to two more years of pandemic misery

- The new coronavirus is likely to keep spreading for at least another 18 months to two years—until 60% to 70% of the population has been infected, a team of longstanding pandemic experts predicted in a report released Thursday.
- They recommended that the US prepare for a worst-case scenario that includes a second big wave of coronavirus infections in the fall and winter. Even in a best-case scenario, people will continue to die from the virus, they predicted.
- "This thing's not going to stop until it infects 60 to 70% of people," Mike Osterholm, who directs the Center for Infectious Disease Research and Policy (CIDRAP) at the University of Minnesota, told CNN. "The idea that this is going to be done soon defies microbiology."

Airlines require passengers to wear face masks

- Three major US airlines have separately announced they are going to require their passengers to wear face masks.
- Two days after Jet Blue became the first major airline to announce this change, American, Delta and Frontier followed suit, releasing statements explaining their new policies.
- Earlier this week Delta said that employees were required to wear masks and passengers "were strongly encouraged" to do so. Today, Delta released a statement saying passengers were required to wear masks on all flights starting May 4, the same date as Jet Blue.

Coronavirus Cases Surpass 4,000 In Riverside County, 6 More Dead

- Kaiser's revised directive also keeps the countywide shutdown mandate in place for all public and private schools, including colleges and universities, until June 19. Newsom has proposed beginning the 2020-21 school year early, perhaps late July or early August, but there is no word yet on when Riverside County schools will reopen.

Riverside County Board of Supervisors Board Chair V. Manuel Perez and Vice Chair Karen Spiegel are bringing forth a proposal Tuesday to rescind County Public Health orders currently in place amid coronavirus.

- Riverside County Public Health Officer Dr. Cameron Kaiser is extending his order requiring residents to wear face coverings when outside and to continue practicing social distancing through June 19. The county is also moving to fully align with the governor's "stay-at-home" order until amended or rescinded.
- According to a news release issued Thursday by Perez' office, "I want to thank Riverside County Public Health Officer Dr. Cameron Kaiser who has led the charge with actions that have no doubt made a measurable impact in saving lives in our county," Perez said. "His early and proactive leadership got us very far ahead as a county. That, combined with data and strong economic arguments, is why I have the confidence that it is appropriate to lift these measures while we continue to align ourselves with the state's stay-at-home order and roadmap for reopening."

Government workers tempted with COVID-19 scam offering free food

- Hackers are finding every opportunity they can to exploit the coronavirus pandemic, even using the disease to promise free meals for government officials, Google detailed in a report Wednesday.
- The attacks differ from cybercriminal schemes in that government-backed hackers are often doing it for espionage purposes rather than financial gain. Google said it found one campaign that targeted United States government employees by offering coupons and free meals from American fast food chains.
- The scam involved COVID-19 messaging and directed victims to a website disguised as a page for arranging meal deliveries. The ploy was designed to steal government workers' Google account login credentials, the tech giant said.

CalFresh Recipients Will Now Be Able to Make Purchases Online

- CalFresh recipients can now use their EBT cards to start purchasing groceries online at Amazon and Walmart. California is also working with many other retailers to expand the number of stores accepting EBT online in the weeks to follow. In addition, persons receiving CalWORKs will also be able to use their cash benefits to make purchases online at Wal-Mart.

CalFresh provides monthly food benefits that help individuals and families buy healthy, nutritious food. Even if temporary, individuals and families who are experiencing a change in their circumstances and need additional help may apply for CalFresh. Californians can visit GetCalFresh.org to apply or call 1-877-847-3663 (FOOD) to be connected to their local county social service office.

Forecast Discussion

Cooling today across the deserts and inland valleys as upper level high pressure continues to slide to the east and a deeper marine layer has developed. Temperatures return to around average for Friday and the weekend. Breezy for passes and deserts into the weekend, especially during afternoons and evenings. A warming trend starts back up on Monday with a weak Santa Ana wind and significant warming on Tuesday and Wednesday for valleys and deserts, which could reach the coast. The warm period could persist through next week for inland valleys and deserts.
